He concluded from the first year's testing that feeding was a very important problem and also that the feeding of the individual cow was a great deal more important than it had generally been supposed. This year he spent considerable time on the feeding of his herd, and he discovered a cow which had a wonderful ability to utilize the feed given and to return a profit on the part of the plaintiff.

"Having in mind the occurrences so fully detailed in the evidence, the many lights, the great speed on approaching the chain, the greater speed developed on seeing the light, seeing the officer and the men with him, all creating a situation where he must have known he would not be in danger of bodily harm if he stopped, as an innocent man would stop, yet he drove forward regardless of consequences. To the resulting damage the feed consumed. At the present time consequences. Oxford County Notes.

A death occurred recently in San Francisco, Calif., which is of more than passing interest to people of Oxford County. It was that of Miss Sarah Dix Hamlin. he was a great-granddaughter of Eleaze Hamlin, who was also the grandfather of Hannibal Hamlin, Paris', most noted son, and the father of Africa, America Cleazer and Hannibal Hamlin, who settled in Waterford; and the grandfather of Rev. Cyrus Hamlin, D. D., missionary to Turkey. Miss Hamlin was born in Harvard, Mass., in which town Eleazer lived during a part of his life. She was not dependent upon her relaives, however, for a reputation. She had a distinguished career of her own. In her early life she went to India, where she established schools. Later she returned to this country and settled in San Francisco, where she was for many years principal of the Hamlin School. She was 83 years old at the time of her death. She leaves one sister, Miss Kath-erine Hamlin, who is the last representative of the Hamlins in Harvard.

There was a gathering in Portland few days ago, which must be of considerable interest to people residing in the southern part of Oxford County. It was a dinner tendered by the medical profession of Cumberland County to the six doctors in the association who had prac- fursa ticed in the county for fifty years or more. The eldest of these physicians was Dr. Augustus S. Thayer of Portland. The others were Dr. Abner O Shaw, Dr. B. F. Dunn and Dr. James A Spalding of Portland, and Dr. Joseph I Bennett of Bridgton. Dr. John I. Sturgis of New Gloucester was unable to at-tend. Dr. Thayer was born in Paris 88 years ago, the son of America and Caroworn a pink in his button hole every day for fifty-five years in honor of his moth-er. More than one hundred physicians

Arthur Weigall, the newspaper write and Egyptologiet, is going to lecture in Portland this week on the Land of the Pharaohs. It is admitted he should know something about this land as he was a newspaper representative there i the digging out and opening of the tomb of old King Tut. He is going to lec ture, however, on Cleopatra, and he thinks he knows a lot more about he than the rest of us; but it is a foregone conclusion that if he tells what he says he is going to, the reputation of that oldtime queen is going to be ruined. Her renown rests chiefly on her love passage with Mark Anthony, and Mr. Weigal wave she did not have one. He says she wasn't a vamp but one of the marrying kind; but it did not matter much to he hether she had her husbands abreas or tandem. She thought she was mar ried to Julius Casar, but when he left there was Mark Anthony handy so she took him. Weigall has robbed her of the traditional glory of her mahogany locks. He says they were faded out sand color. Worse than all else, he says she had a book-nose. One has always been led to suppose she was a lotus flow er from the Nile but Weigall says she was Greek, and wore flowing Greek robes, instead of snappy, Egyptian, one tom. Cranberry sauce is made in a variety of ways. In this article we shall trea of a sauce which we have found particu Pick over the berries carefully, discard ing any which are soft or imperfect.
Then place them in a strainer or colanries. Meanwhile place in a saucepan two cupfuls of sugar and two cupfuls of utes until a thin sirup is formed. Now cover, and cook them until tender and transparent. Care should be taken to keep them simmering gently to prevent their bursting open, for part of the appeal of this dish lies in the firm, whole berries in the clear, red sirup. If any soum forms during the cooking, remove it, and do not cook after the ber ries are tender, for long cooking renders them bitter and unpalatable. If it is ossible, it is better to make this sauce t least a day before it is used, in order develop its flavor. Perhaps you may prefer to serve cran-berry jelly. For this, pick over and wash thoroughly one quart of good firm berries. Place them in a stewpan with one cupful of boiling water. Allow them to boil about ten minutes, or until they are soft. Remove from fire and pour in to a sieve. Then with the back of a wooden spoon mash through the sieve as much of the pulp as possible. Place the strained pulp and juice again in the stewpan, add two cupfuls of sugar, and return to the fire. Allow them to come to a boil, stirring so that the sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Turn immediately into a wet mold or sterilized glasses, for longer cooking may cause it to go beyond the jellying stage, and it wil not sliffen or "set."

Owing to the high acid content, cranberry july has a tendency to liquely if kept a long period of time. For this reason, it is better to plan to use it soon after making. Either of the above dishes is excellent served with turkey or with any kind of meat, and is particular ly adaptable for the carrying out of Christmas color scheme.
